'Santa Run' reaps benefits for the needy

For about a week earlier this month, West Sacramento residents were treated to the sight of Santa Claus riding through town atop a fire engine.

Coming out to the street to greet Santa and his entourage has become a local tradition. "Kids of all ages" enjoy the noisy, well-lit spectacle of Santa and his entourage. Candy is tossed to the crowd.

The giving doesn't just go one way, though.

And "elves" travel along with Santa each night to collect food donated by residents along the "Santa Run" route.

"Over the six nights that Santa rode the fire truck sleigh, with the help of the fire fighters who volunteered their time, the citizens of West Sacramento donated enough food to feed 500 families," reports Firefighter Rob Snyder.

"The West Sacramento Firefighters' Association would like to thank the community for coming out to see Santa Claus and supporting our annual canned food drive," Snyder added.

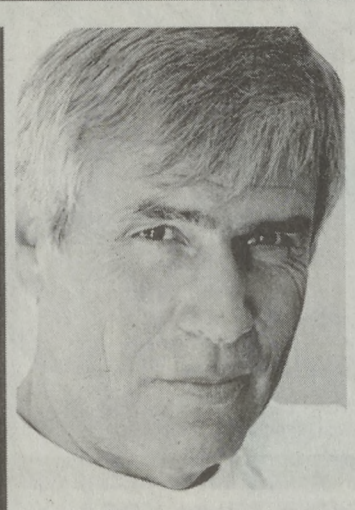
Maybe Santa just doesn't care anymore

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Note: Daryl has Christmas week off from column writing. Below is one of his favorite columns from Christmas past.

Unfortunately, when you get to be my age, Santa Claus is no longer the lovable and jolly gift-giver he once was. He still looks pretty much the same, with his giant belly, fluffy white beard and wind-chilled pink cheeks, but for me, the magical thoughts surrounding that big black bag which is always slung over his sturdy shoulder at this time of year have sadly changed forever. And why is that, you ask? Well, to be brutally honest about it, it's because for the past few decades or so, none of the really good stuff in Santa's bag has ever been packaged up and handed over to me!

No longer do I get to wait with indescribable excitement for Santa to bring me a Davy Crockett coonskin hat, or a pair of Roy Rogers six-shooters, or a shiny new bike. Nor do I hold my breath in anticipation of a speedy Lionel electric train set, or a brand new baseball glove, or even enough tiny green plastic soldiers to put on a decent war in my parents' flower bed. No, I'm afraid when it comes to Santa Claus and his big black bag, growing up just ain't what it's cracked up to be.

When I tried to explain this cruel reality to my daughter the other evening, she just smiled and said, "Well, that's what you get for not writing letters to Santa anymore. And maybe you haven't been a very good boy lately?"

"No, no," I said, "it's a much bigger problem than that. You see, even if Santa did manage to come up with a sparkling new sheriff's badge just like the one Marshall Dillon used to wear on Gunsmoke, I still think something has gone out of Christmas for me."

"Well," she suggested with sincerity, "just remember, Christmas in not about you getting a really good gift – it's about making sure you get me one!"

Anyway, as the years have worn on, I have counted my blessings and quietly resigned myself to receiving socks, ties, shirts, and an occasional sweater for Christmas. This year, however, I did drop a few hints that I wouldn't mind getting a really good book to read in my Christmas stocking.

"What kind of book?" asked my wife, who has long been registered in the North Pole as one of Santa's tireless helpers.

"Oh, I don't know," I said. "I want Santa to surprise me, just like he used to do when I was a kid."

"Okay," she said, "but don't be surprised if Santa gets it all wrong, because she is extremely busy at this time of year and doesn't really have the time to hunt all over town for a book you might not even like. You see, it's much easier for Santa when she has a clue about what you want."

"Oh, that's alright," I assured her. "I trust Santa's judgment."

At first, it was a little difficult to get very excited about getting a book from Santa entitled, Liberty: The American Revolution, but just listen to some of this great stuff:

Did you know that in the eighteenth century, most American girls married when they were only 13 or 14 years old, and that it was considered odd for a maid to still be unmarried at the ancient age of 18? Or that tomatoes were not considered edible back then? Or that it was common for men to begin their day with a stiff drink and that colonial Americans drank enough hard cider in a single day to make modern Americans "woozy" for a week? Or that there were 3,500 practicing doctors in America on the eve of the Revolution and only 200 of them had actual medical degrees? Or that dentists were almost nonexistent and it was not uncommon for Americans to lose half their teeth by the age of 30. Or that Paul Revere never said: The British are coming!" Instead, he shouted "The regulars are coming out!" And that a typical day for a hard-working woman back then consisted of the following: "Fix'd a gown for Jane, mended mother's riding hood, hemmed two dresses for the neighbor girls, spun a bunch of linen, worked on the cheese, pleaded and ironed, read a good sermon, spooled for awhile, milked the cows, made a broom of wheat straw, spun more thread, scoured the pewter and got the week's washing started."

Well, I guess reading Liberty: The American Revolution isn't quite as exciting as playing all day and night under the Christmas tree with a brand new electric train set, but as one of my sons tried to explain to me, "We've got great computer video games nowadays, Dad. Who wants to sit around and watch a stupid little train go around and around in circles?"

EPILOGUE After hearing about this column, my kids got together, pooled their money, purchased a Lone Ranger black mask, a toy fire truck and a colorful red, white and blue yo-yo, wrapped them all up, and put them under our Christmas tree for me.

So, apparently there is a Santa Claus after all, no matter what your age!

Anyway, as the years have worn on, I have counted my blessings and quietly resigned myself to receiving socks, ties, shirts, and an occasional sweater for Christmas.

Program helps farmers, food service workers use local food

From Beth Gabor
County of Yolo

"Farm to School Yolo" will hold a second farmer training on January 24 as part of the program's goal to increase access to regionally grown specialty crops and their use in school lunches. The Farm to School Yolo initiative, funded by a three year California Department of Food and Agriculture (CDFA) Specialty Crop Block Grant, is achieving its objectives primarily through professional development and educational meetings for food service staff and farmers.

The CDFA grant funds an annual farmer training aimed to educate farmers on the opportunities available in school food service sales. The January 24 farmer training will be held at the UC Davis Robert Mondavi Institute for Wine and Food Science and will focus on building a stronger infrastructure for farm-to-school sales through an up close look at working private sector models.

Panel discussions will include insight from distributors, aggregators and farmers working with schools in northern California. The event is co-sponsored by a number of supporting organizations including Community Alliance with Family Farms (CAFF), UC Davis Center for Nutrition in Schools, Yolo Farm to Fork and the CDFA Farm to Fork office. Farm to School Yolo hopes the training will engage farmers looking for new marketing opportunities.

Be blessed this Christmas with the presence of his love and kindness.
God provides forgiveness and a plan for our life that brings peace, faith, hope and a charitable heart. Christ is no longer a baby, nor is he a man dying on a cross. He is victoriously sitting at the right hand of God, making intercession for us, so that when we pray, God will hear … because of HIS goodness … not ours. Drop-off your clothes, linens

Donations will help Yolo County's homeless pick up their lives

From Beth Gabor
County of Yolo

Through February 10, the Yolo County Public Defender's Office will collect used clothing, shoes, purses and belts, table, bath and bed linens, and stuffed animals in an effort to raise funds which will benefit Fourth & Hope's homeless shelter and programs. Everything collected will be sold by the pound to California Clothing Recyclers, which in turn will ship wearable items around the world and recycle unwearable items by turning them into industrial rags or fibers used to make new products. All proceeds will go directly to Fourth & Hope.

"It's really a win-win situation," said Yolo County Public Defender Tracie Olson in a press statement. "Who couldn't stand to clean out a closet? And the job will seem easier knowing that the used clothing and other items will raise money to combat homelessness in our local community."

Fourth & Hope is a non-profit organization committed to ending homelessness in Yolo County. Its mission is to change lives by providing a continuum of care for hungry and homeless individuals and families. In addition to operating an emergency shelter, Fourth & Hope operates a family transitional housing program that assesses a family's reason for homelessness and assists the family in securing economic independence through participation in its workforce development or other programs.

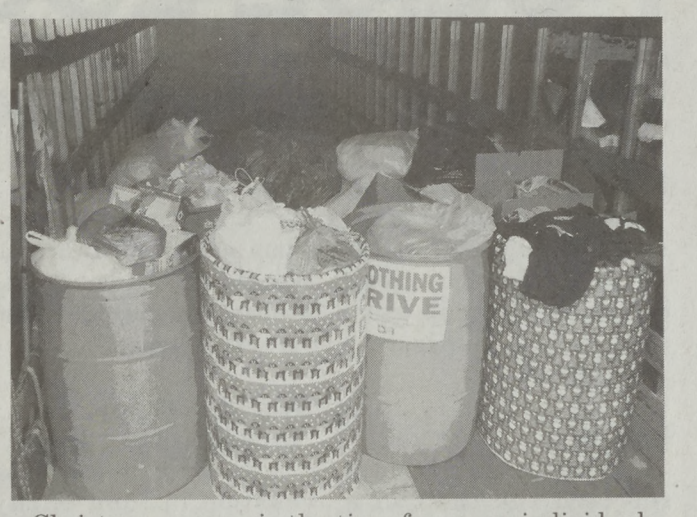
Fourth & Hope additionally operates Walter's House, a 30 bed residential treatment program that gives clients the chance to work towards recovery from addictive behaviors before transitioning back into the community.

"The services Fourth & Hope offer really make a difference in people's lives," added Olson. "Homelessness can be short-term or chronic, but it's always debilitating. I've seen countless clients get back on their feet because of the services offered by Fourth & Hope."

All items for donation may be dropped off at the Yolo County Public Defender's Office, located at 814 North Street in Woodland, Monday through Thursday, 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. and 1:00 to 4:00 p.m.

For information, contact Olson at (530) 666-8167.

Barrels of goodwill



Christmas season is the time for many individuals, families, churches and businesses to come together and try to help out the less fortunate.

West Sacramento's Hunter Douglas plant, a window-coverings plant on Enterprise Boulevard, was one of them.

Employees launched a four-week drive for food and clothing, coming up with over 240 pounds of food and 742 pounds of clothing, reports Vineet Maharaj of Hunter Douglas. The company itself also chipped in 16 gift certificates to bring families a free holiday turkey..

The goods went to the Sacramento Food Bank.

exposed to "Agent Orange" during his deployment. He now has cancer and feels cold much of the time.

The Rotary's Charyl Silva, a chiropractor, brought him a warm robe purchased for him by one of her patients.

He became "very emotional," she later reported. The vet told Silva, "My prayers have been answered."

For the past two years, the chairman of this annual event for the high school service club has been Alan Tern, 17. He, along with other students, put in long days on Dec. 14-15 at the Raley's grocery store, helping shoppers pick gift wishes to fulfill.

Seniors had been invited to submit a wish for a little something they could use for the holidays.

After a donor obliged and filled a senior's wish, the teens and Rotarians wrapped each gift.

They ended up collecting over $500 in cash donations, and more than 400 gifts to distribute among the 125 senior citizens.

Some of the gifts were distributed to shut-insby Meals on Wheels drivers. Others were delivered by Christmas caroling volunteers to senior citizen residents of Eskaton Wilson Manor and Riverbend Senior Manor.

"Yolo County has all the resources necessary for a successful farm to school movement: an abundance of local farms; motivated school food service directors; and a community that wishes to support the movement," said Yolo County Agricultural Commissioner John Young, in a press release. "The next step is to strengthen relationships among our farmers, school food service directors and our community for a sustainable model."

The Farm to School Yolo initiative recently held its third annual stakeholder meeting, led by Yolo County Agricultural Commissioner John Young, to discuss the group's progress to date and future steps. The stakeholder meeting attracted over thirty community members, including representatives from the California Department of Education, Capay Organic and Sutter Davis Hospital. The group plans to seek additional funding in the near future to further the movement in Yolo County schools.

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

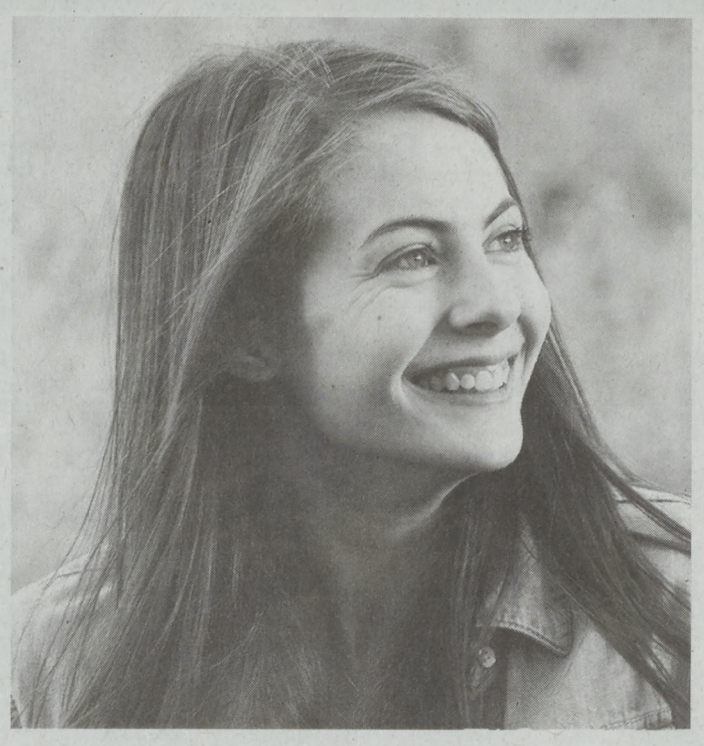
BY SAM STRUCKHOFF

PICKS OF THE WEEK

"Closed Circuit" (R) -- After a fictional terrorist attack in London, the trial of the only surviving attacker stirs up a stinky aroma of government conspiracy and corruption. The key piece of evidence for the prosecution is so classified that the defense can't see it. Only Claudia (Rebecca Hall) -- a special court person -- can view the top-secret evidence and advise the defense. The defense attorney (Eric Bana) turns out to be an ex-lover.

With all of that plot-twisting, the film would have to be a taut, paranoia-inducing thriller to keep you engaged. Well it's not, and it doesn't. The gray-clad leads don't bring a lot of chemistry to the screen. Every other piece of dialog is devoted to explaining the plot.

"Tiger Eyes" (PG-13) -- Davey (Willa Holland) is a 17-year-old girl who's been dealt a blow. She's new to the town of Los Alamos, N.M. (birthplace of the atom bomb), her father's murder still has some loose ends, her mother has withdrawn into grief and her pushy aunt is trying to fill the void. The film follows her journey to make sense of it all -- with help from Wolf (Tatanka Means), a mysterious local.



Willa Holland in 'Tiger Eyes'

This is the first novel by best-selling author Judy Blume to make it to film. Directed by her son, Lawrence Blume, the film preserves the book's thoughtful pacing and quiet appreciation of the landscape. The story captures the drama of trying to grow up while dealing with loss.

"The Act of Killing" -- During Indonesia's violent revolution in 1965, Anwar Congo orchestrated the execution of as many as 1 million people. When this documentary finds him, he's a kindly old grandfather with plenty of money and no guilt about his past. The documentary director offers Congo a great opportunity: He and his friends can star in and direct campy Hollywood-style short films about their exploits in the '60s. Watch as a mass murderer faces his past crimes -- which he says bring him no remorse -- and gradually comes to realize what he is.

"Birth of the Living Dead" -- Zombies have a cold, rigid grip on mankind's collective imagination, and George A. Romero's "The Night of the Living Dead" deserves a lot of the credit for that. It was a cheap flick in black and white (out of fashion for 1968), made in the backwoods and backyards of small-town Pennsylvania. This documentary sits down with the filmmaker, who gets enthusiastic about the production stories like he's back there with his makeshift crew all over again. The film also explores the social context, connecting the low-budget monster-movie phenomenon with the social tides of the time.

"The World Atlas of Wine"
by Hugh Johnson and Jancis Robinson
(Mitchell Beazley, $55)
Reviewed by Larry Cox

In 1971, when the first edition of "The World of Wine" was published, it received international acclaim. During the past three decades, it has been translated into 15 languages and has sold more than 4.5 million copies worldwide. This, the 7th edition, has been completely revised and updated. For example, changes in climate, in winemaking techniques and even where wine is produced all are reflected in this printing.

Hugh Johnson, an award-winning author and recipient of the Order of the British Empire for his services to winemaking and horticulture, his two great passions, and Jancis Robinson, one of the most respected wine critics on the planet, have combined their talents to produce an accessible, highly readable overview of the world of wine.

In addition to the crisply written text, there are more than 215 unique and specially created maps. Dynamic wine regions such as coastal Croatia, Khaketi in Georgia, Canterbury in New Zealand, Swartland in South Africa, northern Virginia in the United States and Ningxiz in China are just a few examples of some areas that are covered in detail for the first time in this guide. Although the emphasis is on international vineyards, more than 70 North American sites are featured.

This is the ultimate book for wine lovers, widely recognized by critics and experts alike as the most authoritative wine reference-work available. It also makes a great gift, although after examining it, it will be difficult to surrender. The Sunday Telegraph described a previous edition of this book as "the bible for oenophiles." Indeed.

Recycle that tree

The Yolo County landfill offers a number of ways to recycle that holiday-generated waste this year.

You may recycle your Christmas tree (free of ornaments and such; limit two per person) at the landfill.

You may also recycle your old electronics, such as computers, TVs and monitors now made obsolete by your new holiday gifts.

For more information, call (530) 666-8729 or visit www.yolocounty.org.

New Year's Eve

The West Sacramento Moose Lodge is hosting a New Year's Eve party, with prime rib and champagne. The Dec. 31 event includes live music from "The Miller Hi-Lites." Tickets are $25/person or $45/couple. Buy them from the bartender at the lodge, which opens daily at 2 p.m. at 3240 Jefferson Blvd. in Southport, or from a Moose member. For information, call 203-6017 or (after 2) 371-9684.

Fireworks, Tower Bridge

The annual New Year's Eve fireworks show returns to Old Sacramento on Dec. 31, with shows at 9 p.m. and midnight, viewable from the West Sacramento riverfront near the ziggurat, or from Old Sacramento. In Old Sac, there will also be street entertainment, live music and children's events. You may bring blankets and chairs, but no alcohol. The midnight "sky concert" will be broadcast on FM 96.9, The Eagle.

The Tower Bridge will be closed to cars from 7:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m., and will close to pedestrians for 30 minutes before and after each concert. For more information, visit www.nyesacramento.com.

College aid

Yolo County teens and their parents are invited to a free workshop on college financial aid, scheduled for 2-4 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 12, at the Davis branch library, 315 E. 14th Street. Participants are encouraged to sign up early (space is limited) and be ready to take notes. Reservations open Jan. 2: call (530) 757-5598, email DavisLibrary@yolocounty.org, or visit the Davis library's information desk.

Christmas lunch

The First Southern Baptist Church of West Sacramento offers a free Christmas luncheon to anyone in need. Lunch will be served from noon to 2 p.m. on Dec. 25 at 2124 Michigan Blvd. Message phone: 371-2111.

Energy upgrades

An alternative financing program is available for property owners who wish to upgrade their heating and air conditioning systems, solar systems, roofs, windows and other systems. The "PACE" program offered by Ygrene Energy Fund is now available in Yolo County.

The program offers 100 percent financing to projects on properties that have at least 15 percent equity, and is available for both homeowners and commercial projects. The financing is bound to the property rather than the individual or business on it, and transfers with the property to a new owner like a property tax.

Visit www.CleanEnergyYolo. Using the promo code "UPGRADEYOLO" will earn a savings on the $50 application fee.

Library + museums

Your Yolo County library card can earn you free and low-cost passes to Northern California museums beginning Dec. 1, through the "Discover & Go" program. Visit www.discover.yolocountylibrary.org.

For general library information, visit www.yolocountylibrary.org or look for the library on Facebook.

Art show

Works by members of the West Sacramento Art Guild will be on display at the West Sacramento Community Center's gallery (1075 West Capitol Avenue) through December. View art in media such as various paints, metal, air brush, embroidery, photography and more. Some works are for sale.

For more information, contact Agnes Nilsen, 374-1810.

Support RCHS library

Help the school library at River City High School encourage young readers: donate a few dollars for the purchase of new books. You may mail a check to River City High School Bookkeeper, Attn: Library Donations, 1 Raider Lane, West Sacramento CA 95691. Or you may donate online at http://donations.juniorlibraryguild.com/rivercity_hs.html.

Staff is asking for donations by December 31.

Shopping = donations

If you do your online holiday shopping by first clicking a link at www.ShopForMuseums.com, a portion of your purchase will go to your favorite museum – including the West Sacramento Historical Society's history gallery.

The website has links to websites for Target, Staples, Old Navy, Barnes & Noble and over a thousand other retailers. It also offers special holiday deals.

When you click at the website, designate your favorite museum before continuing to your favorite store's website.

Household waste

The Yolo County landfill will be open to collect household hazardous waste on Fridays and Saturdays through the holiday season, except for Nov. 29 (although it will be open for non-hazardous waste that day).

Hazardous waste collection occurs 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. Items accepted include batteries, fluorescent bulbs, used motor oil and filters, cleaning supplies, lighter fluid, antifreeze, aerosols, paints, pesticides and herbicides, solvents, poisons, electrical switches and relays, mercury thermostats, old medications and more.

Business waste programs are available: call (800) 207-8222.
